Why Train at U.S. Army Garrison Fort Hunter Liggett?

USAG Fort Hunter Liggett offers two distinct installations with diverse, dynamic and challenging terrain to support and generate combat-ready forces for combatant commanders while taking care of Soldiers, Civilians and Family members.

TOTAL FORCE READINESS

Fort Hunter Liggett (FHL) is located in central California with more than 160,000 acres of unencroached terrain ideal for dynamic and challenging training scenarios. FHL has ranges and facilities, which include a convoy live fire and IED Defeat Lane, as well as the virtual battle space and a dedicated air space of 24,000 feet to support air operations. FHL offers a strategic alliance with Camp Roberts, to provide integrated live, virtual and constructive training for large-scale, multi-component exercises.

Parks Reserve Forces Training Area (PRFTA) is strategically located in the San Francisco Bay area supporting more than 250 regional reserve units. PRFTA supports multi-component exercises with land navigation courses, a distance learning center, classrooms, urban training facilities, air assault obstacle course, and 800 bed spaces.

*"An awesome place and fantastic training environment!"
LTG Charles D. Luckey, Chief of Army Reserve,
Commanding General US Army Reserve Command*

*"We're very appreciative of the Hunter Liggett Team. We leveraged the austerity of the environment and it was great training [at FHL]...we want their [infantry] hardest days here, not abroad."
MG Willard Bureson, Commanding General
7th Infantry Division*

PRFTA hosts Big Logistics-Over-The-Shore West (BIG LOTS), a joint exercise to teach service members mission essential ship-to-shore logistics skills. Pictured above are Army Reserve Soldiers operating a smartboard to assist harbor masters in tracking vessels at the Port of San Francisco.

The FHL Schoonover Tactical Airstrip is one of the few operational tactical airstrips that is C17-capable in the 15 Western States, and has recently been upgraded to accommodate four C-17s on adjacent pads and concurrently have the capability to take off and land an additional C17. Pictured is an Air Force-Army exercise conducted simultaneously at FHL and Joint Base Lewis McChord, Wash.

USAG FHL MISSION is to provide quality installation services and facilities to enable Total Force readiness.
